

JDM Single Cell Skin Atlas Study

Now enrolling!

Help researchers learn more about juvenile dermatomyositis (JDM) by donating previous biopsies.

What is this study?

We are asking if you have had any skin biopsies collected in the past as part of your standard medical care, and whether you would be interested in donating the biopsy to this research study.

Why is this study being done?

We want to learn more about how pediatric autoimmune conditions affect your skin, muscle, and/or lung tissue. We will be looking at individual cells in tissues to develop better treatments and learn more about different subgroups.

What will I be asked to do?

You will complete a one-time survey about your diagnosis and biopsy. The study team will contact your pathology team about the previous tissue biopsies that can be shared for research.
